DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

Re-watch the clip of Ousmane Sembene, “Europe is not my centre”. What does Sembene mean by this? How does this connect to the idea of the “coloniality of knowledge”?

Watch rapper Lowkey’s reflections on the meaning of The Battle of Algiers for him (start at 10.42 mins.) How can watching films that depict the struggle against colonialism from the perspective of the colonised shift our view from the mainstream portrayal?

What is a film you have watched that has shifted your perspective on a period of history or social or political issue? What did the film teach you? How did it change your perspective? What more did it make you think about?
Where can we watch films that bring us different perspectives?
